

So is it worth introducing the Euro? This is very important question.

I think yes, EU is very strong currency, and it is being used in many well developed countries, like Germany, France and Italy.

I beg to differ, because of having your own currency we are able to develop our own economy, and don't have to pay attention for ECB.

Sorry, our time is running low, so we have to quit. Thank you, see you tomorrow!

Oscar did you see today's euro
exchange rate?

Yes I saw. The rate was so low that I bought some euro in Cantor.

An illustration of two men walking in a hallway. The man on the left is wearing a brown jacket over a blue shirt and glasses, carrying a folder. The man on the right is wearing a blue jacket over a white shirt and glasses, holding a smartphone. The hallway has large windows with light streaming in. There are three speech bubbles: one on the left, one at the top right, and one at the bottom left.

Why in the cantor?

Because I prefer banknotes, if somethink goes wrong with system, I will always have my money. But unfortunalety, cantor worker gave toun note, which was damaged in 60% so i told that i want new, because I know that in the bank i would be given only half of value.

Oh that's nice, that you know such think, you probably pay attention in lecture profesor Michael. Do you remember what was on the last one?

wait a minute, I have to go to this store

After returning from the tailor.

Oh yes, i remember there are 7 ways of checking it. For me the moust useful is water mark which is only visible against the ligh.

Last time at the lecture it was about checking authenticity at banknote.

All right, I have to turn here. See you soon!
